However, the matter was left at rest unbut it is now expected that another meeting of the two organizations will be held shortly and the original plans carried out. Should it be impossible to raise the additional sum by subscription, condemnation proceedings will be brought against Mr. Roberts. In this case the improvement tract will be delayed for a year or more. Although the cemetery has been eliminated from the site as far as the government is concerned, the officials in time ex-pect to acquire it. All roads to the cemetery will be cut off and no more burials will be permitted in the cemetery. As soon as Captain Cheatham completes the final negotiations for the land the secretary of war will forward estimates to the department and the improvement of the land will begin at once. The quartermaster general has prepared elaborate plans for the construction of the post, involving an expenditure of $900,000. The effort will be made to secure the appropria-tion at the coming session of Congress. The post will be a full regimental army post, which about 1,000 soldiers will be located. Captain Cheatham said last night that he was much pleased with the news from Washington. He said that since the land had been selected work has been carried on there towards the location of the post.

One of the statements made in the bulletin is: "It will be a sad day for our national life when all our young farmers come to town; when the small, well-cultivated homesteads give way to landed estates."

To Teach German in Five Weeks. Prof. Irving Colby, of New York, yesterday began his five-weeks' course in Gernan at the Young Men's Christian Association on North Illinois street. Prof. Colby's method by which he guarantees to teach his pupils German in twenty-fice lessons, is modern and simple, embodying exclusive minute study of the grammar laws. The course will consist of one hour's instruction five days out of the week.

Almost fifty persons have joined Prof Colby's classes. Students will not be admitted to the course after this week, as the lectures will then have been well started. Prof. Colby has been previously heard in this city, as he conducted a similar lecture course at the Propylaeum several years ago, which was well attended and thoroughness of his method attested.

in Private Homes.

In the six and one-half years in which the Board of State Charities has had supervision of the work among the dependent children in the State, 1,117 children have been placed in family homes by its agents. Of this number 868 are off public support and 249 were returned to the counties of which they were wards. At the legal per diem rate of 25 cents, it would have cost the countles of which those 868 children were wards, $217 a day to maintain them. The total cost of the sium. The practical floor work consists of State agency to the State and the counties last year was $8,183.64, or $22.42 a day. On Oc. 31 there were 2,597 children in family homes subject to visitation. These children have been placed during eight years by all the child-saving agencies of the State. Last year the board made 1,083 such visits, and of the children visited, 837 were doing well, 150 fairly well and ninetysix poorly. In addition to these visits, the work of the agents last year included 176 visits to orphans' homes, twenty-four to county poor asylums, fifteen to county commissioners and 147 special inquiries. Two hundred and ninety-three children were placed in homes and 547 applications
